JALAN RAJA CHULAN

Located approximately 25 minutes walking distance away from Hotel Stripes Kuala Lumpur, Jalan Raja Chulan is considered one of the well-known roads in Kuala Lumpur - linking the old part of town (Masjid Jamek) with the new (Golden Triangle of Kuala Lumpur). In this issue will be exploring what Jalan Raja Chulan has to offer.

Originally known as Weld Street, it was re-named after the Perak Prince, Raja Chulan ibni Almarhum Sultan Abdullah Muhammad Shah II (whose father, the then Sultan, was sent to exile to the Seychelles following the assassination of British Resident of Perak, James WW Birch) - he is known to be the person who contributed to the creation of Perak state anthem, that later on became Malaysia's National anthem, Negaraku. Raja Chulan is also the first non-ruling Malay royal member to have been knighted in 1930.
