LETS PAINT OUR TOWN RED THIS FEBRUARY!

This month of February 2018, The term 'Painting the town Red' literally comes alive almost everywhere in Kuala Lumpur as our city gears up in preparations for one of the main festivals in Malaysia, the Chinese New Year! This will be when you will see decorations mainly in Red color are being put up almost everywhere, in window displays, shopping mall decorations, red lantern displays and red colored or themed dress wear would also be very IN around this time of the year.

This is because the color red is said to be an auspicious color and brings in good fortune and joy. This would be the time of the year where friends and family will be exchanging red packets containing monetary gifts as a symbol of sharing joy and luck!

However, do be mindful as to not use the red color during funerals or writing ones name in RED as this could also be offensive to some.

Red is also the color of LOVE as it will be in this month too where the world celebrates the day of love - Valentine's Day. Have you made any arrangements for your Valentine?

Welcome to Kuala Lumpur, and do indulge in this month of Joy and Love. Lookout for the many Lion Dance shows and do expect loud cheerful bursts of firecrackers all over the city. Enjoy the merriment!

Yours in sincerely,

Sharezal A Wahid
Director of Concierge

NEIGHBOURHOOD STORY

STRIPES has taken cues from the community's heritage, integrating the energy and culture of urban living into its foundation.

Take a stroll around the neighbourhood, immerse yourself in both past and present, as you explore family owned businesses that have been around for decades.

LOT 10 HUTONG

A meal at Hutong Food Court is a dining experience that will leave the competition in the shade. An award-winning gourmet food hall housing more than 20 neon green-lit stands, vendors here are popular KL and Penang hawkers who have been handpicked to set up shop. Well-liked names that have spaces include Kim Lian Kee's Hokkien mee (from Chinatown) and Honkee Porridge.

Located on the lower ground floor of Lot 10 mall, Hutong Food Court has been designed to look like an old Beijing village with narrow 'alleyways' linking stalls. Instead of a central seating area, tables and chairs are placed around these stands.

Prices are worthwhile - whether you are in the mood for chicken rice or wan tan soup, it's all good. One thing to note: drinks are only available from the women walking around with trolleys selling beverages.

Opening Hours: Daily 10am-10pm
